Vestiges of the olive-growing activity in Les Arcs from the French Revolution till today

In 1836, more than 10 mills were still mentioned on the town territory along the irrigation canal (without considering those in the Saint Roch district or alongside the Argens River). They were private mills.

Every winter since 2005, Thélon mill has welcomed professional and amateur olive growers for the grinding of their olives.

According to the year, 20 to 70 tons of olives are ‘crushed’.
